VINOL MADE THIS NURSE STRONG
Nothing Like it for Run-down and Nervous People

Von Ormy, Texas.—"I suffered from a general run-down condition—anaemia, loss of appetite and cough, so I was unfit for my work. I tried different medicines without help, and through my druggist learned of Vinol. I took it; my appetite increased, my cough disappeared, I gained in weight and I am now well and strong, so I can conscientiously endorse Vinol."—

Why Armour is in So Many Lines of Business

ONE of the most fortunate things possible for your pocketbook is that the Armour business is not confined to the preparation of livestock solely for food. Armour and Company understand much better than almost anyone else possibly can that the American people could not afford to buy livestock only to use its edible portions. Consider it. Would you want to pay perhaps twice the present price of beefsteak?

By-Products Reduce Meat Costs

WERE it not that Armour and Company make curled hair, glue, fertilizer, sand-paper, soap, banjo-strings, and many other inedible by-products, you probably could not afford to eat beef.

For, if the livestock were handled on a purely meats and hides basis as in olden days, nearly 30% of a steer would have to be thrown away. Can you not see how the price of meat would have to be increased?

But to you, the important part of it all is that Armour and Company factor these by-products themselves.

By so doing, the greatest possible economy in manufacture is obtained and the expense of handling is much less than if the raw by-products were sold to some other firm.

Meat prices do not have to go up to cover any by-product loss.

More, by factoring their own by-products, Armour and Company materially assist in stabilizing the by-product market for those who sell their unprocessed, and so have a direct influence in maintaining the entire meat supply at true value levels.

Protecting You on Price

BY ANY other method, the figures you pay for meat would be controlled entirely by outsiders who, being under no responsibilities to the consuming public, would have nothing but their own interests to consider.

Therefore, it becomes obvious that for doing what some others do not do, Armour and Company deserve the support of the ultimate consumer to a very considerable degree.

For, by tremendous investments of capital in plants and equipment, for these various related lines, Armour and Company give you a protection that is as real as it is unusual.
